

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Approved For Release 2005/01/11 : CIA-RDP88-01315R000300590046-8

TUE. - 5,251

SAT. - 6,274

ORG 2 NATIONAL CAUCUS
OF LABOR COMMITTEES

Nat'l Caucus of Labor Committees claim CIA, other spy harassment

BALTIMORE — Members of the National Caucus of Labor Committees have submitted motions in Federal Court, Southern District of New York, aimed at protecting alleged evidence of major crimes against NCLC by the Central Intelligence Agency in collaboration with the New York City Police Department.

The NCLC claims CIA and British Intelligence tortured and programmed operatives brainwashed, a leading member of the organization to finger national chairman L. Marcus and other members of the NCLC for assassination.

Marcus told a public meeting Jan. 9 in New York City that while the precise nature of the broad CIA operation is not yet known, the plot is probably aimed at imposing fascist-style governments in the U.S. and Western Europe during 1974.

In addition to the court action now being considered by Judge Metzger (Docket no. 74 Civil 150), an Emergency National Commission of Inquiry is demanding that evidence in possession of the NCLC be protected and submitted to the examination of competent press, legal, and psychiatric experts.

NCLC says New York police officials and FBI agents have refused to provide competent investigation and protection even though the NCLC has reported "hard evidence of espionage and other major crimes to them."

Since these basic institutions are either in complicity with the CIA or else have failed to defend the national interest, in the face of this CIA insurrection against the Constitution, there is nothing but the rapid growth of the Emergency Commission.

Among the initiating members of the Emergency Commission of Inquiry the NCLC lists:

Conrad Lynn, New York attorney; Roland Watts, Workers Defense League; W. McNeil Lowry, vice president for Humanities and Arts, the Ford Foundation; Sidney Lens, journalist; Warren Sussman, Chairman of the history department, Rutgers University; Edwin Schar, psychiatrist; Boulder, Col.; Richard Sobel, attorney, Detroit; Charles S. Shelton, WEEL reporter and director of Edward Bound, Boston College; Arnold Riesman, professor of journalism, Boston College; Nicholas C. Cordell Jr., minister, First Unitarian Society of Albany; Paul Braune, attorney, Takoma, Wash.; Kenneth Dolbeare, chairman of the department of political science, University of Washington; Dr. Sarob Ghandi, fellow of the Institute of Electronics and Electrical Engineering; Vladimir E. Hartman, executive director, Capitol Area Council of Churches; Burt Hoselitz, professor of economics and social science, University of Chicago; Olvin Moreland, director of minority recruitment, University of Oregon Dental School and the Rev. Arthur Bryant, Augustana Lutheran Church.